

Sesquicentenary Mass

Join us to celebrate 150 years of the Marist presence here at St Patrick's on Sunday 16th September 2018, at the 12 noon Mass followed by a light lunch provided in the crypt. It will also be the celebration of the first Parish Priest, Archdeacon McEncroe (1862—1868) who told Archbishop Polding just before he died in August 1868, that he wanted the Marists to succeed him in the parish. Archbishop Anthony Fisher will be celebrating the mass.

St Brigid's Church

Because of the Sesquicentenary Marist mass held at St Patrick's on Sunday 16th September at 12 noon, there will be NO 9.00 a.m. Sunday mass at St Brigid's on that day. Instead, all are invited to gather for the 12 noon Sesquicentenary Mass at St Patrick's.
